KLEIN GRO. CO.

Archdeacon Walton of the Episcopal Church of the Diocese of Missouri, will preach in the Farmington Presbyterian church Friday evening, March 27th, at 7:30 o'clock. Music by the members of the several choirs of Farmington. The public is invited to attend. Flat River

Mr. G. W. Hinkle of Route No. 2 brought a nice bunch of two-year-old hiefters to town last Monday and sold the lot to Mr. Rariden for $25.50. He met with another good piece of luck the same day. Going to DeLassus he lost a ten-dollar bill and found it again lying on the side of the road as he returned.

Dr. I. N. Shannon and his family, who have been spending some months at Imperial, Cal., have returned to Missouri, and the Doctor will take up his practice at Knob Lick. He is much improved in health, in fact well, and is glad to get back to his old "tramping ground," the best on earth.

Misses Mildred and Marguerite Keith, who are attending Forest Park University, lost all their clothing by the fire last Saturday. They made their escape from the burning building without even a hat, and went to the residence of their aunt, Mrs. Josephus Stephan. Mrs. Keith went to St. Louis the first of the week to replenish their wardrobes and arrange for their continuing in school.

While attending the Laymen's conference at Mexico last week Rev. C. E. Hickok reported the proceedings for the Mexico Ledger, and that paper makes the following mention of the fact: "Rev. C. E. Hickok, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Farmington, Mo., has the thanks of the Ledger for the splendid report being published in the Ledger of the Laymen's conference now in session in this city. Rev. Hickok is not only successful as a minister of the Gospel, but a first-class, all around newspaper man."

The Miracle of the Roses.
Quite a good audience attended the entertainment given by the choral class of Elmwood Seminary last Monday evening, and all were much pleased. Those taking part showed thorough training.

Mrs. Kalis' Concert.

Last Thursday evening Mrs. M. C. Kalis gave a very enjoyable concert at the Opera House. She was assisted by Mr. Herbert W. Owen of St. Louis; Mr. Edward Barroll, violin; Mr. Elmore Mason, euphonium and Miss Ethel Morris at the piano. Owing to an accident to Miss Morris the previous evening, when she burned her arm, she was unable to accompany all the selections as intended, and only played for Mr. Mason. Mr. Owen very graciously stepped into the breach and played not only for the others, but his own accompaniments, which necessitated the changing of some of the numbers. Mrs. Kalis in making her program gave Farmington the benefit of an unusual number of high class selections, making a very difficult program, which she executed in a most acceptable manner. Mr. Owen won the audience not only by his artistic singing but by his instrumental pieces. He played Beethoven's Polonaise Eb in a thoroughly delightful manner. Mr. Barroll's playing is always effective, and Mr. Mason's big euphonium made very pleasant music.

Lost—A gold watch fob. Finder will be rewarded by leaving same at residence of Geo. K. Williams.

KILLED IN SUNDAY SALOON CAROUSAL

Richard Huls, Barkeeper, Slain by Bud Ray at a Cantwell Saloon
Last Sunday.

Sam Higley's saloon at Cantwell, in the Lead Belt, was run wide open last Sunday and quite a crowd patronized the bar. Towards evening a number of the crowd were drunk and boisterous. About six o'clock Richard Huls, the barkeeper, told the crowd to get out that he was going to close up. Objection was made by some of the carousers and a row was started. Huls took down a gun and struck one of the crowd with it, knocking him down. Bud Ray, who it seems was just outside the door, stepped back into the saloon with drawn revolver and commenced to shoot at Huls, firing three shots. One ball struck Huls between the left collar bone and the first rib, the ball passing through his body and ranging downward; another ball struck him on the right collar bone, and the third shot went into the floor. Huls fell and expired immediately. At the inquest before Coroner Dr. G. B. Perkins the next day the ball that did the deadly work was extracted from the back a little to the left of the spinal column. Substantially the foregoing facts were elicited at the inquest, and the jury rendered a verdict accordingly. Ray was arrested and lodged in jail at Farmington to await the action of the grand jury, having waived preliminary examination.

Sam Higley, the saloon keeper, was also arrested on information of Prosecuting Attorney Tucker for violation of the dramshop law and placed under bond. His trial was set for Wednesday before Squire Jones, when he pleaded guilty and was fined $50, which under the law revokes his license.

FIRE AT FLAT RIVER.

Dwelling of John Inman Destroyed and Other Buildings Endangered.

About half past nine o'clock Wednesday night the dwelling house of John Inman at Flat River was discovered to be on fire, and the flames were so far advanced that it was impossible to do anything to save the building, and all the furniture except the piano was lost. There was a strong wind at the time and the sparks from the burning building set fire to the roof of the Miner's Supply Co., which was checked, however, before much damage was done. By hard work the adjoining buildings were kept from catching on fire. Loss about $2,000, with insurance for $1,400.

IS FARMINGTON PROGRESSIVE?

Look on this picture, then on that:
January, 1908.

An early train that put you in St. Louis at 10:30 a. m.

The best electric light service the town has ever had.

Two daily mails to and from St. Louis.

The St. Louis morning papers at breakfast time.

A train that would enable you to leave St. Louis after business hours and reach home at 9:30 p. m.

March, 1908.

No train to St. Louis that reaches there before 1 p. m.

No electric lights on streets, residence or public building. The lights of other days, coal oil and candles in use.

Only one mail a day to and from St. Louis, or possibly a mail about 9 or 10 a. m. by the local freight.

No St. Louis papers until that time and probably not before 1 p. m. Obligated to leave the city at either 7:30 a. m. or 3 p. m., reaching home on the latter at 6 p. m.

Will be an April Bride.

The Globe-Democrat Society columns make this announcement: "Friends of Miss Lucy Stoughton, one of the most popular of the women journalists of the city, will be glad to know that she has discarded the pencil and will be married on April 30 at Farmington, Mo., to Dr. Willis Young of this city. A number of friends will go down to the wedding, among them the family of Mr. George Teasdale and Mrs. Barada."

Miss Stoughton has been at the Butterfield farm for the past few weeks.

When you can't find it anywhere else, go to Klein's. They have it.
